roadmap

Welcome to the DMPRoadmap wiki!

The Digital Curation Centre and UC3 team at the California Digital Library have developed and delivered tools for data management planning since the advent of open data policies. DMPonline (DCC-UK) and the DMPTool (CDL-US) are now established in our national contexts as the resource for researchers seeking guidance in creating data management plans (DMPs). We've worked together from the outset to share experiences, but with the explosion of interest in both of our tools across the globe we're formalizing our partnership to co-develop and maintain a single open-source platform for DMPs. By working together we can extend our reach, keep costs down, and move best practices forward, allowing us to participate in a truly global open science ecosystem.

The new platform will be separate from the services each of our teams runs on top of it. Our shared goal: go live with a combined DMP Roadmap platform by Q1 2018. Future enhancements will focus on making DMPs machine-actionable so please continue sharing your use cases!
